Maryland 19th in Sears Directors' Cup

In final standings released by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA), the Terrapins' program was ranked tied for 19th out of 306 Division I schools last year. It is the highest finish for the Terps since the rankings began five years ago, and Maryland's 38-position jump from the No. 57 spot in 1994-95 is the greatest in that time by a school not previously ranked in the Top 25.

University of MARYLAND

Excellence In Education

There is no better place to be than the University of Maryland. As Washingtonian magazine noted in its December, 1997 issue, "...kids are turning down schools like Princeton and Virginia to go to College Park." With its top-ranked academic programs, nationally recognized faculty, diverse population and lush 1,580-acre campus located between Washington, D.C. and Baltimore, Md., it's no wonder the University of Maryland is a sought-after destination for some of the state's — and the country's — best and brightest students.

Attracting them are more than 100 majors and some of the highest-ranked programs in the country. For instance, in the 1998 U.S. News and World Report rankings of graduate schools, the Clark School of Engineering was ranked 13th in the nation, the School of Public Affairs was ranked 27th, and also was named one of the country's 25 best business schools for entrepreneurs by Success magazine. And, the university's School of Music was ranked 30th in the country in the first U.S. News and World Report reputational survey of arts programs since 1994.

The reputation of the School of Music promises to grow when the Maryland Center for the Performing Arts opens in 2000. With a 1,200-seat concert hall, a 300-seat recital hall, a 650-seat proscenium theater, a 200-seat dance studio and a 200-seat experimental theater with state-of-the-art lighting, acoustics and theatrical design elements, it will be an ideal home for university-based performing arts programs.

For exceptional students seeking an exceptional education at the University of Maryland, College Park, there are a number of programs designed to enrich the learning experience. Among them are the Honors Program, ranked among the nine best in the country by Ivy League Programs at State School Prices; College Park Scholars, which encourages students who share common intellectual interests to live and study together in 10 specialty areas; and the Gemstone Program, which links student teams from engineering, the humanities, business and the physical sciences in a four-year research project.

Supporting the research needs of students and faculty are some of the country's best research facilities. In 1994, the largest, most technically advanced research archives in the world — National Archives II — moved to College Park. In addition, just outside of College Park are the Library of Congress, the Smithsonian Institution and the National Libraries of Agriculture and Medicine, among others. The university itself has the most comprehensive library system in the area.

The University of Maryland, College Park, as the flagship campus of the state higher education system, is a vital part of Maryland's current prosperity and its vision for the future. For students here, the state offers a bounteous extension of the campus' own wealth of opportunity.

High tech, engineering and service industries thrive in proximity to the campus, offering a wide spectrum of internship and work-study opportunities that only a major metropolitan area can provide. The Kennedy Center alone houses the National Symphony Orchestra, five performance stages, an opera company, and the American Film Institute. In Baltimore, one of the great ports of the world, the Inner Harbor has become a cultural magnet for thousands of tourists each year, offering the National Aquarium, the Maryland Science Center, and other attractions.

Whether your focus is the sciences or the humanities, a small town atmosphere or a metropolitan feel, the University of Maryland, College Park offers a wide range of educational and cultural opportunities. There is no better place to be than the University of Maryland, College Park.

President C.D. Mote Jr.

C.D. (Dan) Mote Jr. started his tenure as president of the University of Maryland, College Park, with the same three-word slogan that has guided his entire academic career: "Quality, Quality, Quality."

From his first day in office, Sept. 1, 1998, Mote has shaped his agenda around the achievement of high quality in every aspect of university activity, from students to sports, and from research to community involvement. Fortunately, Maryland was already well on its way.

"Maryland is a university on the move," Mote said. "That's why I am so excited by this position after spending almost my entire academic career at Berkeley. We have a goal to achieve a place among the 10 highest quality universities in America, and I know in my bones that is an achievable goal."

Achieving quality has been Dan Mote's life, from his student days at the University of California at Berkeley, where he earned all of his degrees, through his years as an outstanding teacher and world-renowned researcher and his leadership of a highly successful capital campaign at Berkeley. He arrived in College Park determined to continue the same level of achievement in his new post.

After earning his doctorate in Engineering Mechanics from Berkeley in 1963, Mote spent a year as a research fellow at the University of Birmingham in England, then three years as assistant professor of mechanical engineering at the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh before returning to Berkeley in 1967.

There he stayed for more than 30 years before coming to Maryland. He earned tenure in 1969 in the Mechanical Engineering Department, and was promoted to Professor in 1973.

Mote served two terms as vice chair of Mechanical Engineering and served as chair from 1987 to 1991. At that time, he was appointed to the FANUC Chair in Mechanical Systems in addition to being named vice chancellor for University Relations, the post he held until accepting the presidency at Maryland in 1998.

Mote has participated with distinction in every phase of the academic enterprise, including classroom teaching, working with students, basic research, applied research and service to the university and the community.

Much respected by his students, Mote earned the 1971 Distinguished Teaching Award and the 1975 Pi Tau Sigma Excellence in Teaching Award for the University of California. He has supervised more than 50 doctoral students, including several who are still in progress, and more than 60 master's theses. He continued teaching and supervising graduate students even during his administrative assignments, and several of his graduate students from Berkeley commute to Maryland to meet with him as they finish their projects. Mote has stated his intention to teach and work with graduate students at Maryland as well.

Mote's research activities have focused on dynamic systems, instrumentation, vibration and biomechanics. He has achieved international recognition for his work on gyroscopic systems, including high-speed translating and rotating systems such as circular and band saws, computer memory disks and tapes. He also has researched the biomechanics of ski injuries and developed safer ski bindings as a result. His research has resulted in more than 300 scholarly publications as well as patents in the United States, Norway, Finland and Sweden.

A registered professional engineer in California, Mote has served in numerous capacities for professional societies, including the National Academy of Engineering (NAE), the American Society of Mechanical Engineers (ASME) and the American Society for Testing and Materials (ASTM), and is co-editor of its biannual research series, "Skiing Trauma and Safety."

Mote's work has been supported continuously since 1962 by the National Science Foundation, and he also has received research fellowships from the Royal Norwegian Council for Scientific and Industrial Research. The American Society of Mechanical Engineers International elected him to honorary membership in 1975, and he has been elected as well to fellow grade in the International Academy of Wood Science, the Acoustical Society of America and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

He was elected to the prestigious National Academy of Engineering in 1988, and in that same year was awarded the Humboldt Prize by the Federal Republic of Germany. In 1991, the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science awarded him a fellowship.

In 1992, he conceived, designed and implemented a $1.1 billion comprehensive capital campaign, which had achieved more than $800 million at the time he left Berkeley.

Shortly after he arrived at Maryland, this university's ongoing capital campaign passed the halfway point more than four months ahead of schedule, but Mote has said repeatedly that development and capital campaigns are not about raising money.

"It's about building relationships, with alumni, with business and government, with students and parents. We build those relationships by connecting the alumni and friends of the university with the quality people and quality programs on campus. If we succeed in building authentic relationships, fund-raising happens as naturally as water flowing downhill."

Mote and his wife Patsy live in the President's Residence on the College Park campus. They have two grown children.

Maryland TERRAPINS

Among the Nation's Best

This is Maryland Athletics

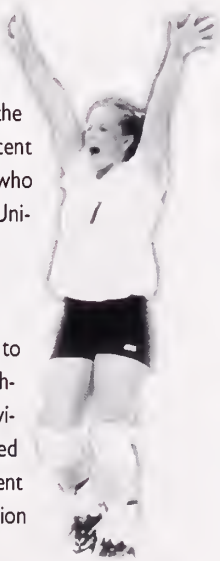
At the University of Maryland, winning is not taken lightly. Like the rich history of all its sports programs, championships are a tradition.

Since the 1950s, Maryland has established itself as one of the most successful athletic programs in the nation. This type of success is no accident; it has been built year-by-year on the achievements of outstanding young men and women who were given the opportunity to excel both on and off the field of play. The victories, the championships and the national acclaim are all ingredients of the Maryland athletic program. Student-athletes who attend Maryland are part of a program and a university which thrive on tradition and excellence.

Academic Excellence

The University of Maryland considers intercollegiate athletics an integral part of the collegiate experience. Its existence provides an opportunity for students, faculty, alumni and students to share in the life of intercollegiate athletics.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to achieve the same standards of excellence in its athletic program as exist within the university's teaching, research and public service programs. The department embraces the concept that the student-athlete is first and foremost a student, possessing academic abilities, personal interests and ambitions comparable to those of the other members of the student body. Since 1983, 88 percent of freshmen scholarship athletes who completed their eligibility at the University of Maryland earned their degrees.



Goals

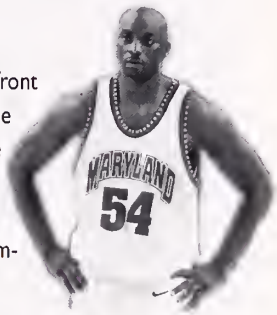
The great thing about being a Terrapin is the commitment to hard work and dedication. At the University of Maryland, the athletic department is dedicated to supporting a well-balanced Division I program. Athletic director Deborah A. Yow and her dedicated coaches, administrators and staff have re-engineered the department into a responsive and financially sound model — with a clear vision and a determined drive toward national prominence.

Athletic Success

National championships, conference championships, national rankings and postseason play are all a part of the University of Maryland experience. The University of Maryland has established itself as one of the nation's elite athletic programs. The Terrapins have won 13 national championships, including a record four consecutive by the women's lacrosse team. The Terrapins had plenty of reason to celebrate when it came to intercollegiate athletics in 1997-98, as they posted their highest finish ever (No. 19) in the national Sears Directors' Cup all-sports ranking. Its 38-position jump from the No. 57 spot in 1994-95 is the greatest in that time by a school not previously ranked in the top 25.

Competition

Wearing the Maryland uniform means playing in front of some of the loudest and most supportive fans in the nation. It means playing against the best teams in the country, in the most prestigious conference in the country, the ACC. It means wearing the school colors with pride. It means doing your best in athletics and academics. It is a unique and special feeling being a Terrapin.



Athletes in the Community

From the media spotlight to the community spotlight, Terrapin student-athletes strengthen the ties of the local community by serving as role models. Community service is a key part of the Terrapins' agenda. Student-athletes support many community programs which help to enrich the lives of Maryland youth while teach- ing the importance of studying hard and saying "no" to drugs and alcohol. Representatives from the University of Maryland athletic department speak to participants and use their image and the appeal of sports to encourage Maryland children to stay in school, improve their reading and writing skills, and to receive their high school diplomas.

Athletic Director Deborah A. Yow

The University of Maryland athletic department has made remarkable progress under the leadership of Deborah A. Yow over the past four years. Budgets are now balanced and the inherited operating debt of almost $7 million has been paid in full. There is a spirit of excitement and pride at Maryland and the department has a clear vision for its future.

In her inspiring first meeting with the staff, shortly after she was named A.D. in the summer of 1994, she challenged the Terrapin athletic department to "raise our sights and sharpen our tools...to work hard and work smart...to recognize that our only limitations are those which we place upon ourselves."

Yow has rallied the department toward the achievement of five strategic goals:

Yow Elected 2nd VP of NACDA

Deborah A. Yow was elected second vice president of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics this past June and is scheduled to assume the organization's presidency in July 2000. Her term as second vice-president began July 1. Now in its 33rd year, NACDA serves as the professional and educational association for more than 5,100 college athletic directors, associates, assistants and conference commissioners at more than 1,600 institutions throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico. Yow is the second woman to serve as an officer of NACDA (Barbara Hedges, athletic director at the University of Washington, held office from 1994-97).

1) Generate significantly higher revenues with increased corporate sponsorships, aggressive marketing and more effective fund-raising;

2) Boost the graduation rate of Terrapin athletes to a level equal to the general student body;

3) Raise the level of competitive achievement nationally and in the Atlantic Coast Conference, while carefully complying with ACC and NCAA rules;

4) Develop a streamlined, highly efficient athletics organization;

5) Provide outstanding customer service.

In achieving most of these goals over her first four years as athletic director, Yow and her dedicated coaches, administrators and staff have re-engineered the department from a debt-ridden, under-achieving organization to a responsive and financially sound model - with a clear vision and a determined drive toward national prominence. Maryland now ranks in the top 10 percent of all NCAA Division I programs competitively across all sports, is competing effectively in the ACC, and set an enviable record of 150 All-ACC academic honor roll student-athletes. Corporate sponsorship revenues are up 265 percent and annual fund-raising for scholarships has increased 60 percent. Maryland is a remarkably improved athletic program.

In 1997, Yow formed the employee "Committee on Quality in the Workplace" to recommend initiatives to improve working conditions and to design programs to recognize the value of athletic department employees. This has proved to be a wonderful tool in recognizing the worth of the university's outstanding employees across the department. There is a compelling sense that the Terrapin athletic department is a family, with a common goal and a shared purpose.

Maryland's athletic director recently observed, "We have the finest coaches, support staff, and administrative team in America. It is because of their courage, hard work, and cooperation that we now have a strong, viable athletic program. I am immensely proud of each of them. I am equally proud of our Terrapin fans who buy tickets and our Terrapin Club members who faithfully support the Maryland athletic program with their donations for scholarships, and the Maryland Educational Foundation and M Club members who serve and give liberally. We have a great Terrapin family. That's the foundation for all our successes...and the basis for our bright future."

Regarding the many achievements of the Terrapin athletic program, Yow says, "We are pleased, but we are not satisfied...our vision is to be one of the top 10 programs in the nation consistently...we see no reason to settle for less." Yow, who is a member of the NCAA Management Council and other prestigious national groups, is known for her goal-oriented and proactive management style. She consistently inspires and expects maximum effort from herself and those around her. Her words set the tone for everyone in athletics: "Winning isn't everything, but the will to win is." She points out that this applies in the classroom, on the field of competition, and in life.

A former basketball coach, Yow was the first male or female at the Division I level to lead three schools (Kentucky, Oral Roberts, Florida) to their first-ever appearances in the national Top 25. Her previous significant administrative experience came at the University of Florida and the University of North Carolina-Greensboro and as a pioneer female athletic director at Saint Louis University (1990-94).

The Maryland athletic department staff is working as a focused, talented and determined team under the dynamic leadership of Dr. Deborah A. Yow and is realizing steady and remarkable progress across all areas, with the best yet to come.

With a clear vision and with high aspirations for Maryland athletics, the Terps prepare to enter the new century on a dramatic upward thrust. The athletics staff embraces this prospect, with gratitude for its successes and with renewed determination to further enhance the program's national stature. It has the skill and determined leadership to reach its lofty goals, as a part of this great university. And it will.

Danita D. Nias

Senior Associate Athletic Director

Danita D. Nias, whose involvement in University of Maryland athletics goes back to her days as a cheerleader in the late 1970s and early 1980s, is in her fourth year as an athletic administrator and her third as the department's senior associate director of athletics. Nias assists the athletic director in the overall administration of the department, including performance management, staff development, and outcome assessment. She oversees the supervision of 13 varsity sports, supervises the personnel, marketing and media relations units, and directs a department-wide Continuous Quality Improvement program. She also assists in the solicitation of gifts for the capital campaign, coordinating her efforts through the athletic advancement office.

She earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Maryland's College of Business and Management with a concentration in personnel and labor relations and her master's from Syracuse in 1998.

She and her husband Michael reside in Silver Spring.

Rob Mullens

Associate Athletic Director, Administration

Rob Mullens, who joined the Terps' staff as assistant athletic director for business in the summer of 1996, was elevated to associate athletic director for administration in December 1998. In his expanded role, he supervises 12 intercollegiate sports (baseball, wrestling, men's and women's soccer, men's and women's golf, men's and women's cross country, and men's and women's indoor and outdoor track) in addition to overseeing business, ticket, and facility operations, the strength and conditioning program, and the training room. He is the department's chief financial officer.

Mullens graduated cum laude in 1991 from West Virginia with a degree in business administration. He earned a master's degree in sport management at WVU in 1993. Prior to his appointment at Maryland, he was senior business manager and the chief budget officer for the University of Miami (Fla.) athletic department (1994-96).

He is married to Jane Mullens, who is the Terrapins' assistant athletic director for compliance.

Academic Support & Career Development

The University of Maryland considers intercollegiate athletics an integral part of the collegiate experience. Its existence provides an opportunity for students, faculty, alumni and students to share in the life of intercollegiate athletics.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to achieve the same standards of excellence in its athletics program as exist within the university's teaching, research and public service programs. The department embraces the concept that the student-athlete is first and foremost a student, possessing academic abilities, personal interests and ambitions comparable to those of the other members of the student body.

The mission of the Academic Support and Career Development Unit, headed by assistant athletic director Demetrius Marlowe, is to provide quality developmental programs and need-based services that will enhance the academic progress, facilitate the career development, and encourage the psychosocial growth of every student-athlete.

The department embraces the concept that the student-athlete is first and foremost a student.

MAPS Directory

This directory, produced annually by the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, is intended to assist graduating Terrapin student-athletes as they begin their professional careers. Distributed to more than 1,000 corporations and businesses around the region, prospective employers are introduced to our graduating student-athletes with resume information relative to academic, career and personal achievements.

Terp Choices

Terp Choices is a program designed to guide student-athletes by orienting, supporting and increasing awareness of the relevant issues pertaining to student-athletes in today's world. The focus of the program is making personal choices and how they may affect an entire team, not just a single individual. Education and interactive workshops are presented to the athletic team and are led by student educators.

Career Information Fairs

Career Awareness in Academic Support is expanding to include a variety of programs which will be offered for student-athletes throughout the semester. Career awareness will be an ongoing process and will include assistance with resume writing and interview skills. The end of the semester will bring a career awareness fair which will host a number of professionals with whom student-athletes can learn about career interests and planning. Unlike typical "job fairs," the purpose of this program is to allow student-athletes to explore multiple career opportunities by speaking directly to individuals in their chosen area of interest.

Team Maryland

Team Maryland is a class taught in conjunction with the campus' Center for Political Leadership in which student-athletes are exposed to leadership and public speaking skills and techniques. The program consists of a group of volunteer student-athletes who learn about the challenges for children in the community by speaking to different elementary schools about drug abuse and the importance of education.

In conjunction with the campus' Center for Political Leadership, participants are taught leadership skills and public speaking techniques to use in their school-based presentation. In addition to school visits, Team Maryland has hosted visits from local schools to our campus.

Strength & Conditioning

Collegiate baseball has evolved to the point where total physical preparation is necessary to successfully compete on the Division I level. It has become extremely important to strength and conditioning coach Damian Stephens that all of the Terrapin athletes are prepared through training to maximize their athletic development in terms of strength and conditioning. The high level of dedication by the members of the baseball team has brought about spectacular achievements in the weight room and in competition.

The objective of the strength and conditioning program for baseball is based on the enhancement of performance as well as the prevention of injuries. Stephens makes every attempt to accommodate the different training needs of each individual athlete.

Damian Stephens

The preparation of a student-athlete to compete in baseball goes beyond strength and power training in the weight room. Speed improvement, flexibility, plyometrics, nutrition, agility and conditioning are also important ingredients in the preparation of the baseball team here at Maryland. The strength and conditioning staff puts a great emphasis on improving the quickness of the Terps through increased mechanical efficiency and the improvement of acceleration of maximum velocity.

1999 Season Preview

With a blend of solid veterans and promising newcomers, the University of Maryland baseball team enters the 1999 season poised to climb up the Atlantic Coast Conference standings. Head coach Tom Bradley, who has been at the helm of the Terps' baseball program since 1991, has no doubt that this is his deepest and most talented squad at College Park.

"This is the most talented team I've had in the nine years I've been here," he said. "We have a good mix of experienced seniors and juniors and we feel good about our freshmen and transfers. We have depth at every position."

Leading the group of veterans is senior shortstop Casey Trout, who finished second on the team with a .332 batting average last season and was the only Terp to start all 57 games. In addition, he led Maryland with 22 doubles and three triples. Trout was also named the ACC Player of the Week for April 7-13.

"Casey has greatly improved each season he has been here and has become one of the most outstanding shortstops in the conference and in the area," said Bradley. "He has been here four years, plays solid defense, runs and hits well and is a definite pro prospect."

The other group of veterans who will lead Maryland this season are the four seniors on the pitching staff. Mike Wooden and Tom Curtiss are the top two returning starters, Aaron McFarling is the top middle reliever and Mike Ginsberg is the closer.

Casey Trout

"We feel good about our senior pitchers," said Bradley. "Wooden and Curtiss will keep us in a lot of games. Wooden has been a starter since he got here and Curtiss pitched very well last year. McFarling has greatly improved from his freshman year and Ginsberg could have as many as seven to nine saves."

The key to Maryland's improvement, however, will be keeping the team healthy. The Terps were depleted by injuries last season and finished with a 26-30-1 record. This season, however, everyone is back and healthy. Leading the list of players seeking to bounce back is senior outfielder Eric Beer, who missed all of last season after hitting .273 as a regular starter in 1997. Junior outfielder Frank Valois and sophomore infielder Chuck Easter were everyday starters up until sustaining midseason injuries that sidelined them for the rest of the year. Sophomore Chuck Manns, who missed all of last season, is back to provide depth in the outfield.

In the outfield, the Terps are in good hands with Beer, Valois, Manns, junior Larry Long and freshmen Matt Swope, Daryl Whitmer and Tony Jackson. Long broke Maryland's single-season stolen base record with 33 thefts last season.

In the infield, Easter should see considerable time at first base along with junior Craig Munroe, who transferred from Temple. In his sophomore season with the Owls, Munroe hit .351 with 10 home runs and 43 RBIs. At second base, junior Jason Mohap returns after starting 32 games last season and hitting eight home runs and tallying 26 RBIs. Trout returns at shortstop, and sophomore Brian Patenaude, who started 39 games last season and hit .264, returns at third base. Sophomore Mike D'Archangelo, who started 41 games last season, will see playing time in the middle infield, and freshman Ray Wagner, who had a stellar high school career, will also see action.

At catcher, the Terps lost last year's leading hitter Scott Bronowicz, but have several players who could step in and take his place. Sophomore Mike Sturino and junior Brian Barton are the top returnees. Freshmen Kevin McDonald and Ken Beck are the top newcomers.

In addition to the four returning senior pitchers, sophomore Jared Vogt, juniors Joe Hart, Jamie Hammond and Ryan Fleetwood all return to the Terps' pitching staff this season. Fred Weaver and Todd Ainsworth are the top newcomers.

Larry Long

In the end, Maryland is determined to close out the 1990s with one of its most memorable seasons in recent history.

"Our goals are to have a winning season and move up in the ACC standings," Bradley said. "Our conference has always been very competitive but we feel this is our year to improve and to fare well in the conference tournament."

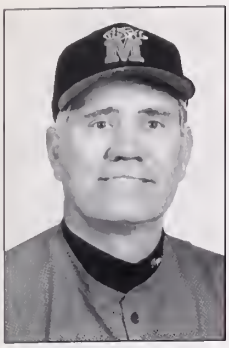
Head Coach Tom Bradley

9th season at Maryland • 21st season overall • Maryland '72



Tom Bradley begins his ninth year at the helm of the Maryland baseball program and his 21st season as a head coach on the NCAA Division I level. Heading into the 1999 season, he has the second longest tenure at an ACC school among the nine current head coaches in the conference.

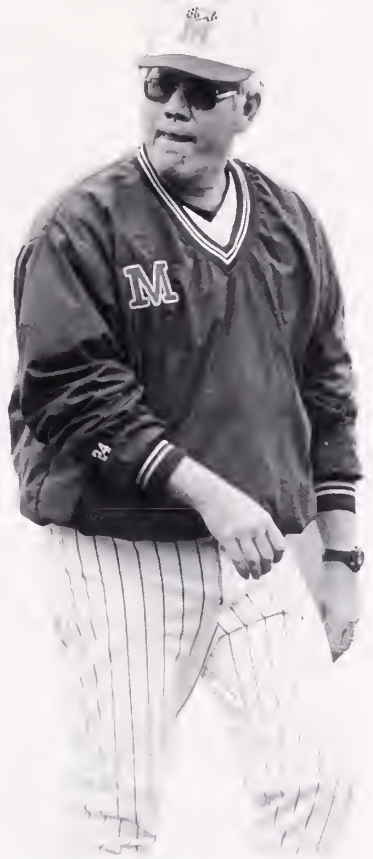
A 1972 graduate of Maryland, Bradley returned to his alma mater in 1991 and led the Terps to a school-record 29 wins in his first year as the Terps' head coach. Prior to arriving at Maryland, he was the head coach at Jacksonville University for 12 seasons. Under Bradley's leadership, the Dolphins amassed a record of 431-291-1, won the 1989 Sun Belt Conference championship and advanced to the 1989 NCAA Tournament. Heading into the 1999 season, he has a career record of 627-531-5.

Through his first 20 seasons as a NCAA Division I head coach, Bradley has coached more than 70 players, including 21 at Maryland, who have continued their baseball careers in the professional ranks. Last year alone, seven former Terps (Brandon Agamennone, Scott Bronowicz, Kevin Haverbusch, Eric Milton, Ron Hartman, Derrick Maddox and Gary Maddox) played pro baseball.

Bradley was a two-year letterwinner on the baseball team from 1967-68. In his final season (1968), he was a third-team All-America selection and went on to be drafted in the fifth round by the California Angels. More than three decades later, Bradley still holds the best ERA in ACC history (1.34) and ranks 12th all-time with 10.70 strikeouts per nine innings. In 1968, Bradley was part of a pitching staff that led the nation with a 0.95 ERA.

For seven years after playing at Maryland, Bradley competed in the major leagues. From 1969-70, he played for the Angels and appeared in 17 games. Following the 1970 season, he was traded to the Chicago White Sox. Over the next two seasons, Bradley started 79 games for the White Sox and won 15 games each season. After the 1972 season, he was traded to San Francisco and played for the Giants the next three seasons. He won 23 games over that three-year stretch and was the starting pitcher on Opening Day 1974 at Candlestick Park. Bradley played in the Giants' organization in 1976 and the Oakland A's organization in 1977. Following the 1977 season, he announced his retirement, ending his career with 55 major league victories, 691 strikeouts and a 3.72 ERA.

The year after retiring from professional baseball, Bradley became the pitching coach at St. Mary's College (Calif.), and the following year he was named the head coach at Jacksonville University. The Dolphins were nationally ranked six times during Bradley's tenure, including a season-ending No. 25 ranking in the Baseball America and Collegiate Baseball/ ESPN polls in 1990. Six years after leaving the Dolphins for Maryland, Bradley was inducted into the Jacksonville University Athletic Hall of Fame.



During his undergraduate career at Maryland, Bradley was recognized for his academic accomplishments in addition to his outstanding athletic career. In 1968, he was named Maryland's Scholar-Athlete of the Year. Bradley returned to school in 1972 and graduated cum laude with a major in Latin and a minor in Greek. He went on to earn his master's degree in athletic teaching at Jacksonville in 1980 and became a tenured professor by the time he came to Maryland.

Bradley's wife, Kathy, is a fourth grade teacher at Washington Episcopal School in Bethesda, Md. Their son Andy is a junior at Gonzaga College High School in Washington, D.C., and their daughter Alix is a sophomore at the University of South Carolina.
